3 ARE KILLED ASP. R. R. TRAIN STRIKES AUTO

Miss Daisy Wright, This City, Among Victims in Crash Near Claymont, Del. ENGINEER COULDN'T STOP

Saw Auto, but Train Was Going Too Fast to Avoid Accident

DRIVER "STEPPED ON GAS" INSTEAD OF THE BRAKE

Car Is Demolished and Occupants Hurlled in All Directions

Three persons, one a Philadelphian, were killed and one was injured in an automobile accident at 11:45 o'clock last night at a grade crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Claymont, Del.

The accident was caused by the driver of the car placing his foot on the accelerator instead of the brake pedal.

The Dead
Miss Daisy Wright, seventeen years old, 1025 Columbia avenue, Philadelphia.

Miss Mabel Slaughter, twenty years old, Wilmington.

Ernest Stebbins, twenty years old, Wilmington.

The Injured
George P. Collins, twenty-five years old, Wilmington.

It was Collins' car and he was driving Southbound local train No. 403 struck the motorcar at the crossing, wrecking it.

S. S. Baker, engineer of the train, as soon as he saw the automobile dart toward the tracks, put on the brakes, but so fast was the train proceeding it went a quarter of a mile before it could be brought to a standstill.

The moment the train stopped the conductor, W. McConnell, accompanied by passengers, ran along the tracks. The first met Collins, who was running for assistance. He had fractured ribs, cuts of the face and of the legs. He was placed in the baggage car.

Stebbins was found next. He lay lying on his back, his head against the train, and was still living. His right leg had been severed, and his head was crushed. He died in a few moments.

DANCER, HOME WITH BROKEN BACK, HOPES TO DANCE AGAIN

Emma Haig, Brought to Philadelphia From New York Hospital, Walks After Being in Plaster Cast Seven Weeks

MISS EMMA HAIG

"All one needs is a little confidence," she says—Accident saved her from breaking contract—"Tried Anyway"

Pretty Emma Haig, dancing star, finds compensations even in a broken spine. For seven weary weeks she lay encased in a plaster cast, wondering would she ever walk again. It did not seem remotely possible that she might dance once more. Now the seven weeks are over, and the cast and the long days in a New York hospital are merely memories. Best of all, the surgeons say that she is cured, and with returning strength will be able to whirl as giddily as she was doing that night in New York when she whirled clear over the footlights and broke her back as she fell into the orchestra pit.

As all the world knows, people don't usually recover from a broken back. It was only a marvel of surgery, a bit of good luck and the girl's youth and vitality that brought her through.

Was Tired Out Anyway
"I would have been compelled to give up in a short time anyhow," she said today in the home of her aunt, Mrs. George Hughes and Miss Frances Magnusson, whom she is visiting at 4030 Green street. "I was tired out. I hadn't had a vacation in five years. My heart was giving out, the doctors said. But I was only a marvel of surgery, a bit of good luck and the girl's youth and vitality that brought her through."

MINERS ENTOMBED ONE WEEK ANSWER SIGNALS, IS BELIEF

Rescue Workers in Kennedy Mine Are Sure They Heard Explosions From the Argonaut

CAME AFTER THEY HAD FIRED TWO BLASTS

Feeling of Certainty That Trapped Men Still Live Prevails in Jackson

The miners declared that the sounds could not have been caused by falling rocks. It would have been impossible to hear such sounds through the thick walls of stone that separate the two mines, they said.

All Jackson is rejoicing over the report, for a feeling of certainty that the men imprisoned for a week still live now exists.

Mine officials refused to comment on the statements of the miners or to give out anything official on the report.

The present progress of the work indicates the entombed men will be reached about Thursday morning.

The explosion in the Argonaut mine occurred about midnight August 27. It was accompanied by a fire which raged three days and forty-seven miners were trapped below the 4000-foot level.

It was impossible for rescue work to be carried on through the Argonaut and this was commenced in the Kennedy mine adjoining. Crews have labored incessantly night and day, as it was necessary to blast their way through hundreds of feet of dirt and rock.

Until today, when it was reported that explosions had been heard by workers on the 3700-foot level of the Argonaut, belief had been common that the entombed men, hope of reaching them alive had been virtually abandoned.

FORMER UTAH SENATOR

Justice Clarke Formulates 'Philosophy of Later Life'

Washington, Sept. 4.—(By A. P.)—The letter of resignation sent to President Harding by Justice Clarke, of the Supreme Court, was as follows:

"I shall be sixty-five years old on the 18th day of this month. For a long time I have promised what I think is my better self that at that age I would free myself as much as possible from imperative duties, to the end that I may have time to read many books which I have not had time to read in a busy life, to travel and to serve my neighbors and some public causes in ways in which I cannot see then, while holding important public office.

"As a beginning of what I hope may at least be a partial realization of this philosophy of my later life, I hereby resign, as of September 18, 1922, the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, which I have held during the last six years.

"With grateful appreciation, my dear Mr. President, of the many courtesies you have shown me through many years, I am, "Sincerely yours, "JOHN H. CLARKE."

By Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 4.—The resignation of Associate Justice Clarke has been received by President Harding, it was announced today at the White House.

The President, it was stated, will accept the resignation and intends to nominate former United States Senator George H. Sutherland, of Utah, to take Mr. Clarke's place on the Supreme Court bench.

Justice Clarke mailed his resignation to the White House from his home in Youngstown, O. It will become effective September 18, when the associate justice will reach the age of sixty-five years.

Mr. Clarke gave as his reason for wishing to be relieved of his Supreme Court duties that retirement at sixty-five years would conform with his "philosophy of life," adding that he hoped to serve his neighbors and some public causes in a way which would be impossible if he continued on the bench. Mr. Clarke was nominated to the Supreme Court bench in 1916 by former President Wilson and in point of service, is the junior associate justice.

HOOVER TO FIX HARD COAL PRICE AT PARLEY HERE

Priorities in Distribution to Be Established After Final Ratification of Peace

TO FAVOR HOUSEHOLDERS INSOFAR AS POSSIBLE

Scale Committee Indorses Pepper-Reed Compromise After a Bitter Debate

UNION VICTORY, SAYS LEWIS

15 Minor Demands of Men, Including 8-Hour Day, Ignored in Settlement

Terms of Settlement of Hard Coal Strike

These are the terms of the Pepper-Reed proposal for the settlement of the hard coal strike ratified by the Anthracite Scale Committee. Contracts in force March 31, 1922, to be extended to August 31, 1923, or March 31, 1924.

Production of coal to begin at once. Operators and miners to join in a recommendation to Congress that legislation be forthwith enacted creating a separate Anthracite Coal Commission, with authority to investigate and report promptly on every phase of the industry.

Continuance of production after the extension date to be upon such terms as the parties may agree upon in the light of the report of the commission.

Emergency control of distribution and prices of anthracite will be taken soon by Secretary Hoover at a conference in Philadelphia with operators and miners engaged in the industry, it was said today at the Commerce Department in Washington.

An emergency organization along the same lines as was used for handling bituminous coal is expected, with householders being given as much priority as possible in order to insure them a supply of winter fuel.

The Philadelphia conference will be convened as soon as arrangements already started can be completed, officials here holding that the long session of the hard-coal production committee immediate steps to accelerate distribution of the anthracite supply is to be a success.

Decision as to distribution plans, however, officials indicated, might await the ratification of the anthracite agreement by the mine workers' tripartite convention, expected to meet in Wilkes-Barre Thursday.

The possibility was foreseen that fuel legislation, now pending before Congress, might become a law in time to enable anthracite distribution on a large scale to be placed under the control of the Federal government, the output of hard coal was not expected to reach anything like the normal figure in less than thirty days.

To Favor Householders
Members of the distribution plan for anthracite, it was declared, would favor the householders. The Interstate Commerce Commission through the distribution of coal under priorities to consumers classified according to their necessities.
